

OUGHT TO AVOID IT.

For several months prior to the State Convention of last year, there was a general complaint against the State officers.

Business men everywhere were working to down them in the convention on the grounds, that they fought against all State industries and never, if they could avoid it, purchased a single dollar's worth of supplies in this State. They took trips below to select goods and it was charged that they made a sufficient amount of commissions out of the transactions to pay for their trips.

These charges made against the candidates for nomination resulted in their overwhelming defeat.

During the campaign there was a great cry about home industry and patronizing Nevada merchants.

But it was only for campaign purposes and meant nothing.

Recently the Board of Capitol Commissioners purchased several hundred yards of carpet for the State.

Bids were sent in by some responsible merchants of this city and Reno, together with samples but the Board rejected all and purchased in San Francisco.

This is not carrying out the promises of the campaign orator who thundered against the people who did not purchase from the home merchant.

The home merchant pays taxes to pay the salaries of the same State official who send below for carpets and thus deprive the home merchant of his commission.

The members of the Board who did this are John Egan, Treasurer; R. L. Horton, Controller and J. Poujade, Lieutenant-Governor.

If they will profit by the experience of their predecessors they will avoid this sort of work in future.

A Peculiar Display

Warren K. Moorehead, who has been at work for some time making explorations in Ohio for the archaeological department of the World's Fair at Chicago, has made a rich strike at Fort Ancient, Ohio a small place near that city. Thursday several deep vaults were uncovered. One of these vaults was a great stone chamber, in which were 24 skeletons in various postures. They were in an excellent state of preservation, and Moorehead had them photographed just as they lay. A number of the skeletons were placed in vaults of flat stone, and seemed to have been tightly sealed. The skeletons and the vaults will be taken intact to the World's Fair at Chicago, where with the vaults they will be set in a position precisely as found. Curious ornaments and jewelry, were also found in the vaults. The skeletons are supposed to be those of Ohio mound builders. An arrow was sticking in one of the skulls.
